Poison Gas from Tank, Dropped From Truck, Overcomes Many

Several hundred persons were overcome by poisonous chlorine gas in downtown Brooklyn, N. Y., when a 200-cubic foot tank toppled from a truck on a busy corner and spread its highly irritating contents over an area 10 blocks square. Men, women and children dropped to the street as the fumes burst out of the tank, one of 20 being hauled into town. Victims were rushed to hospitals. In the photo above a young girl victim lies on the lap of a friend as other victims begin to recover from their near fatal ordeal.

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

BRITISH PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL'S unexpected pronouncement of "kindly words about Spain" is causing puzzlement, and uneasiness, in this country.

Pro-Nazi Spain continues to give Hitler material aid with which to wage war against us. Her position is not identical with that of some pro-Allied neutrals who have been forced to serve the German tyrant. That raises a problem which is likely to get hotter before it cools.

These average American's reaction to this issue seems to be controlled mainly by the fact that the Allies are about to undertake the greatest and most hazardous amphibious invasion of history. He is uncomfortably aware that vast numbers of the troops which will fight their way up the beaches from the sea on D-day will be our boys.

Mr. Churchill's gesture advanced the thesis that Spain had contributed to the United Nations cause, among other ways, by resisting Nazi pressure to take over Gibraltar and close the straits, and by ignoring the huge Allied preparations close to the Spanish coast for the invasion of Africa. Thus Spain made backhanded amends for some of her irregularities toward the Allies.

There are many reasons why Britain should want to win Spain over. Churchill named several, including the hope "that she will be a strong influence for the peace of the Mediterranean after the war."

At another point he said: "I look forward to increasingly good relations with Spain and extremely fruitful trade between Spain and this country, which I

1,000 Overcome By Chlorine Gas; 150 Still In Hospitals

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, June 2.—Approximately 150 of an estimated 1,000 persons felled by escaping chlorine gas in Brooklyn yesterday still were under treatment in hospitals today as authorities began an investigation of the accident.

No fatalities were reported from the fumes which escaped from a 220-pound steel cylinder on a delivery truck and blew out over a radius of half a dozen blocks in a busy downtown section.

Bore than 350 men, women and children were taken to seven hospitals. Most of them were allowed to go home after treatment.

Scores of others were treated at makeshift first aid stations set up in stores, gasoline stations and nearby homes.

As the fumes spread, people toppled to the ground like flies, eyewitnesses said, while others were sent into violent spells of choking, coughing and vomiting.

Many of the victims were subway passengers, affected when the gas descended through ventilators into two subway stations. Hundreds of passengers were made ill and fled to the streets where they, too, were overcome, falling to the sidewalks.

Rescue efforts began within a

TWO BOYS HELD IN FARMHOUSE THEFTS

Culminating a series of lootings and burglaries of farmhouses in the northwest section of Columbiana county, two youths, one 13 and the other 14, are being detained by juvenile authorities.

A complaint by Keith Elliot, of the Homeworth-Alliance road, led to the arrest of the two youngsters by Sheriff George Hayes. Elliot tied a complaint with Hayes after his house was looted last week.

Investigations of the case, coupled with findings on several other similar affairs in that part of the county recently, led deputies to believe the crimes were being committed by the boys.

The pair was arrested in East Palestine Tuesday and were wearing completely new outfits, the sheriff said. They had also been reported spending money freely for pop and candy.

When questioned by the sheriff they admitted several crimes and said there were more. Both are wards of the Fairmount Children's home and have been going out to work on farms, the sheriff said.

They confessed to robbing Elliot's place and stealing some silverware and other goods from a Campfire Girls camp near the home.

The older youth is being returned to a reformatory as he has been charged with similar crimes before he was committed to the home by the court. The younger boy was returned to the home until disposition of his case can be made.

BRICKER FLAYS CIO POLITICS

Declares New Deal Allied With Corrupt Political Machines

(By Associated Press)
TRENTON, N. J., June 2.—Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, aspirant for the Republican nomination for president, charged last night that the CIO political action committee was attempting to dominate the Democratic party and to influence elections through the use of money and intimidation.

Asserting it was "no secret" that the CIO committee, which is campaigning for the re-election of President Roosevelt and the defeat of anti-New Deal candidates, "uses not only money but intimidation to get votes," Bricker declared:

"It is time that the American people become aware of what is going on and see that it is stopped short in its tracks."

Winding up a one-day campaign tour in New Jersey's capital city, Bricker, who is nearing the end of a nationwide trip, said to an audience of 500 in the Trenton War Memorial building:

"When has it become the legitimate function of a labor organization to so interfere in elections that it can make a minority supreme over the majority of the people? If any political party—yes, if any governmental agency—were to interfere in union elections to deprive union members of their exclusive right to determine union policies, there would be ground for legitimate complaint and righteous indignation."

"The reverse should also be true. I say to you that when the CIO political action committee attempts, as it is now doing, to dominate the

Salem Girl Promoted To Staff Sergeant In WACS

Gertrude Tontsch, daughter of B. J. Tontsch, 1170 Newgarden st., has just been promoted from technical sergeant to staff sergeant of the WACS. Her father has been advised.

Born in Salem, Sergt. Tontsch enlisted in Houston, Tex., two years ago and for the last year and a half has been stationed at the WAC recruiting office in Cincinnati. She received her training in Des Moines, Ia.

Miss Tontsch was the first Saxon girl to enlist. She tried to enlist before she was old enough, then applied for a government position and was assigned to work she has since been doing for the WACS. Her enlistment came as soon as she was the proper age.

The Salem girl is now staff sergeant and assistant bookkeeper at the Cincinnati recruiting office.

NAZI ESCAPE ROAD IS CUT BY AMERICANS

Highway Six Is Severed As Allied Troops Enter Velletri

By SID FEDER
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, June 2.—Fifth army troops have cut the Via Cassilina, sealing off a main German escape route, and broken into Velletri—already left two miles behind by an American spearhead battling on the heights in sight of Rome.

Plunging across the Via Cassilina—highway 6—near Valmontone, the Allies slashed the main road for Nazis falling back from the main front to the southeast.

British forces pounding up the highway were nearing Ferentino, only 18 miles from Valmontone, and French troops swung toward the highway from the west in this sector. A few lateral roads branch off from the Via Cassilina to highways farther east.

U. S. infantrymen entered Velletri late yesterday after other Americans virtually had encircled this key German fortress, on the Apennine way 18 miles from Rome. At noon today "fierce fighting is in progress" in the streets, headquarters announced.

Two miles to the northwest, Yankee troops fighting on Monte Artemisio, in view of Rome's historic buildings, were meeting "very obstinate opposition," a communiqué said.

Lariano Captured
A new wedge was thrust into the enemy defense line by capture of Lariano, a village on the highway to Valmontone four miles north-east of Velletri.

The first United States troops struck into Velletri at 5:15 p. m. yesterday and on their march into the town square captured 19 prisoners. Associated Press War Correspondent Daniel DeLuce reported from the front.

(Even two days ago German broadcasts hinted Velletri had been abandoned, but DeLuce's dispatch indicated the Americans still were meeting resistance and had not yet fully occupied the town. His dispatch was filed at 8:45 p. m. yesterday, Italian time.)

The Germans apparently still clung firmly to the other three major strongholds on their Rome line—Valmontone, astride Highway 6 to the northeast, and Lanuvio and Campoleone, toward the coast.

The daily communiqué said Eighth army troops, advancing astride the Via Cassilina toward Valmontone, "have pressed enemy rearwards so severely" in one sector "that enemy demolitions could not be effected."

Advance Eighth army elements drove six miles beyond Frosinone to a point less than two miles from Ferentino.

Headquarters said the Americans who penetrated the German Valmontone-Velletri line to 2,600-foot Monte Artemisio have "established themselves" but now are battering against strong enemy defense points. Americans on this and other heights now are fighting in view of Rome.

WELLSVILLE, June 2.—The War department today notified Joseph Plunkett, of Hammondsville, that his son, Pfc. Russell J. Plunkett, 27, died May 18 of wounds received in action in Burma.

Inducted into the infantry in August, 1941, he was stationed in the Panama Canal Zone before his assignment to the Burma front.

145 Seniors Receive Diplomas At 80th Commencement Rites

Diplomas were awarded to 145 graduating seniors last night at the 80th annual Salem High school commencement exercise in the high school auditorium.

Speaking for the members of their class, Vera Janicky and Rachel Keister, first two honor graduates, delivered orations built around the theme, "The America We Build."

Miss Janicky, choosing "The Heritage of Youth" as her topic, emphasized the many educational, social and political heritages offered American youth and stressed the important task facing the new generation after the present war.

In her oration, entitled "Youth On the Threshold," Miss Keister outlined the responsibility facing the youth of America today and said they are ready to accept it. She cited the important and revolutionary changes that have been brought about by science, medicine and industry in this war and pointed out some of the unlimited opportunities for improvements ahead.

Miss Keister closed her talk with an appeal to youth to establish a world-wide peace by giving the other

Pope Sees Early Peace, Asks Victors To Aid Vanquished

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, June 2.—Pope Pius XII, in a speech to the College of Cardinals, expressed hope today that peace soon would appear on Rome's hills and over the whole world but added that a demand for total victory might prolong the war.

In an Italian language broadcast the pontiff called on the victors to give hope and faith to the vanquished, and declared that "whoever would dare lift a hand against Rome would be guilty of matricide."

Speaking as contending armies surged within sight of Rome, Pope Pius said that anyone lifting a hand against the Eternal City would "have to bear a grave responsibility toward future generations."

The pontiff said many persons fear the theory of "full victory or complete destruction" and that this "operates with a bad influence as a stimulus prolonging the war and also on those who following their internal impulse or for realistic considerations, would be inclined to a reasonable peace."

A fear of the enemy's determination "to destroy national life down to the roots suffocates all other arguments and brings about a courage of desperation," he said.

"Those who feel this," the Pope continued, "advance as in a hypnotic sleep amid unpardonable sacrifices and compel all others to an exhausting and bloody struggle, the social, economic and spiritual consequences of which threaten to become the scourge of future times."

Urges Rome Be Spared
He said Rome was receiving "more considerate treatment" from air raiders.

"We cherish the hope," the Pope continued, "that this more just and moderate tendency will prevail and that the city will in all cases and at whatever cost be preserved from becoming a theater of war."

He warned, however, that "we do not hesitate to repeat once more with equal impartiality and dutiful firmness that whoever would dare lift a hand against Rome would be guilty of matricide before the presence."

WMC Places Controls On Male Workers

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Sweeping new controls over the nation's dwindling supply of male workers were ordered today by the War Manpower commission to be placed in effect by July 1.

They provide that virtually every job-seeking man in America will be required to apply to the United States Employment Service for assignment to the war plant where he is most needed, regardless of where that plant may be located. Employers, on the other hand, will be permitted to hire only those men referred to them by the USES.

"The successful conduct of the war now requires the channeling of all available male labor in the nation to jobs of greatest war production urgency, and the retention of such labor in those jobs," War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt declared in announcing the new program.

Now Nation-Wide
It extends on a nation-wide basis the WMC's voluntary program already in effect in about a dozen areas of critical labor shortage.

"We propose," McNutt declared, "to accomplish the channeling 'by a system of priority referral, effective throughout the nation, but varying among communities by such adaptations as may be found desirable.'"

Farm workers are not restricted, nor are businesses with eight or less employees.

McNutt said the program would make it possible for a worker anywhere in the country to "take his most useful place on the industrial firing line," adding:

"This is just as important as it is for us to get our soldiers onto the firing line when and where they are needed."

He said one of the principal difficulties in recruiting men for war jobs and retaining them is "over-optimism with respect to an early ending of the war"—this causing workers to look for peacetime employment.

"I have been most disturbed by this attitude," he said. "The war is not nearly over and such sentiments are dangerous."

Dynamite Mishap May Reach Jurors

William Allison, R. D. 3, Salem who has been in City hospital since May 14 following a dynamite explosion near a coal mine southeast of Salem, is reported by hospital attendants as in fair condition today.

Allison suffered severe injuries to his feet and legs when a charge of dynamite, inserted in the ground by the operator of a mine to keep prowlars away from his tool shed, exploded directly beneath Allison as he, presumably, tried to enter the shed.

Sheriff George Hayes, who is investigating, said today that Allison's case would probably go before the grand jury, but added that Prosecutor Frank Springer had not definitely stated his intentions.

Court action is expected against the mine operator for placing the trap on his property in violation of regulations governing the use of the explosive, the sheriff said. Sheriff Hayes also stated that a second youth, whom Allison has not identified, was injured in the explosion. According to the information available, Hayes believes the other lad's eyes were injured.

POLITICS AND FOREIGN POLICY

If the highest purpose of politics is to put into public practice the collective intentions of private citizens, the professed desire of President Roosevelt to keep post-war security out of American politics must be questioned. If such an ambition is expressed in good faith—and that point, itself, may be doubted—it raises a false hope. Foreign policy without political backing is impossible.

Announcement of steps by this government toward world security by Secretary of State Hull and the President's declaration that the United States is submitting for discussion by other governments the first draft of a plan of post-war organization for peace and security can no more be divorced from politics than the fact that Mr. Roosevelt's mandate to proceed with his policies expires this year. In the judgment of other governments, politics and foreign policy in the United States are inseparable; the relationship is implicit in the way we are organized.

Instead of shying away from the relationship and pretending it does not, or at least should not, exist, the government should aim to use it to best advantage. That is, there should be a minimum of narrow partisanship, an aim already partly satisfied by steps to assure the senate foreign relations committee of intent to keep it informed.

The aim would be further satisfied if, instead of conducting negotiations for post-war security in a vacuum of secrecy and rumor, the state department and the chief executive were to take the people into their confidence. After many months of restlessness on this score, public demand for information about foreign policy still remains unsatisfied. The people still do not know what Mr. Roosevelt has said and done in their behalf at his conferences with leaders of other governments. They are unable to define with any assurance what their government's foreign policy objectives are. The favorable popular opinion requisite to formation of a policy which can command support on a bi-partisan level is not being developed; he people lack the sense of being well informed that is the best guarantee against the growth of suspicion and mistrust.

They stand more than half-convinced at this juncture that the same administration which says it pegs to keep foreign policy out of politics intends to use foreign policy to partisan advantage in a reelection campaign—and that it is being guided as much by considerations of the effect on the electorate in its timing of the beginning of conversations with other governments as by considerations of the effect on post-war security. If such suspicions are groundless, they could be allayed by measures of candor which would cut the apparent grounds from under them.

THE STARS SAY:

For Saturday, June 3.

THIS DAY'S astrological map holds rather conflicting and complicated conditions, with many annoyances and perplexities largely brought about by uncontrolled temper, impulses, emotions and speech. All this impetuosity, resentment, bad feeling and contention may prove a defeating factor to some well grounded chances for substantial success and solid achievements. It may also arouse the ire of those in high places who may be disposed to use their authority to chasten or subdue. Keep within the law, work diligently on well organized objectives and there may be gratifying rewards and pleasant contacts.

Those whose birthday it is may be on the eve of a year of substantial progress and sound achievements, with a solidification of the affairs. Efforts for enduring worth, security and permanence of position should be jeopardized by a tendency to strife, contention, malice and an indulgence in impetuous and emotional moves as well as words or writings. They may forfeit support from public or influential sources and incite reprisals or penalties. Concentrated effort for the future should be enforced rather than momentary satisfactions of grudges.

A child born on this day may have many safe and sturdy qualities for serious achievements in life, but its tendency to strife, impulsive and emotional indulgence may undermine its best aspirations.

By JACK STINNETT

CHICAGO—Delegates to the Republican national convention here June 26 (and the Democratic convention which follows in July) are going to find Chicago a different host city than in previous convention years, but the change will be so slight that no one who has slept in a foxhole in Italy or fought the jungles of New Guinea would notice it.

The Office of Defense Transportation and the railroads both assure me that delegates, alternates and convention "officials" won't have any trouble getting transportation.

Persons who have ridden railroads, especially in the south, middle west and west, may look on that assurance with some doubt. What is meant is that they will get tickets, some kind of sleeping accommodations and an occasional meal.

Once arrived, the order of the day is patience about getting taxis. I have heard estimates of a 10 to 50 per cent cut in taxis here. I can only report that they are scarce in spite of group-riding. The drivers are cagey, too. They stay out of zones where they are likely to pick up fares to spots from which they will have to head back.

Chicago has always been one of the great hotel cities in the country and even when the largest conventions were in town, there was no real dearth of beds. Hotel officials assure me that such will continue to be the case and that no one will have to sleep in the streets.

However, don't get the idea that either hotel accommodations or service will be up to pre-war standards. Persons who had double rooms and suites in former years will have to take in roommates this season. The manpower shortage has made service one of the biggest hotel headaches but I haven't found in Chicago or elsewhere that it's any vital matter to complain about.

Those who woo the cup that cheers better bring their corn drippings with them. Over-the-bar beverages still seem plentiful and except at the clip joints are as reasonable as in your own home town, but bottled goods are another matter. According to reports, the black marketeers have cornered the bottled goods, with prices ranging from $6 a fifth for the "cheaper" brands to $17 a fifth for what you are used to.

As for the business, the real business, of the convention—nominating candidates for president and vice president, the facilities are exactly what they used to be. The only problem will be to try to find a Somebody-for-President headquarters to hang around.

PERIOD OF DECISIVE ACTION

Secretary of War Stimson's report on development of the United States armed forces—3,657,000 troops already overseas with shipping available for increasing the total to more than 5,000,000 in the next six months—is a professional tribute to the knack of delivering the goods. While this stupendous job has been going forward, the United States has produced and delivered, with the help of its allies, mountains of lend-lease war material.

When Secretary Stimson says the period of decisive action is at hand, he does not restrict the promise to Europe. He does not need to specify the terrific potentialities of the striking force that has been developed; the Germans and Japanese, of course, know its size and strength. The United States and its allies now have arrived at that condition of preparedness in the war which obviates the necessity for deception; they have survived the Axis strategy of taking advantage of their initial weakness and now are adequately prepared to take advantage of Axis weakness. At long last—and thanks to American skill in delivering the goods to every part of the world—they are ready to overwhelm the enemy on battle-grounds of their own choosing and timing. It may be assumed that Secretary Stimson did not make his announcement lightly. The decisive action he says is imminent will not be much longer in the making.

Men of principle are always bold, but those who are bold are not always men of principle.—Confucius, c. 500 B. C.

Be cautious with whom you associate, and never give your company or your confidence to those of whose good principles you are not sure.—Bp. Coleridge.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Hearing Loss Seen As Coming Problem

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE ADJUSTMENTS which the post-war planners must consider are only partly economic or social. I should say as a rough estimate that at least a third of the planning will have to consider medical problems. Some of these are plain for all to see and consider—the ripples, the blind and the nervous wrecks among the veterans of combat. Numerically they would hardly justify my estimate of a third of all post-war problems being medical.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

But there is another, less obvious and much more numerous group of medical liabilities who will come out of the war. They are in both combat and civilian groups. They may not realize for a long time what the war has done to them. But still subtly and perhaps to the unconsciously it will have changed their whole lives.

As an example of this is a report I have before me by Lieut. (J. G.) J. C. Howard, M. D., on tests of hearing made on men who have seen combat service. It is by no means a cheerful account. The conclusion is that post-war America has an excellent chance of being in part a hard-of-hearing America, because of acoustic trauma. It applies to those who have gone to work in war industry as well as to those in the armed forces. And it thus hits particularly the young adult between the ages of 18 and 35 who in the past has been particularly free of auditory difficulties.

Damage of Noise

Damage to hearing from the assaults of noise has in the past been identified by the medical profession with certain trades—such as boiler makers, riveters, blasters and those make up only a fractional part of the population.

The damage to hearing in this group is mainly in the higher frequencies, starting above 3,000, which means deafness for high tones, but in the course of time this spreads forward on the chart until it reaches the level of conversational ranges.

World war I had little effect on the hearing of the members of the armed forces. It was short and comparatively not so very noisy. The English, French and German troops showed a good deal more loss than ours. This war has increased the pace of mechanical warfare and with it noise. Besides, altitude flying adds its burden as well as the barometric pressure of submarine existence.

Protective Devices

Studies in the hearing acuity of the personnel of airplane and submarine services show that the amount of damage depends on the ability of the individual's hearing apparatus to stand pressure, the amount of exposure, and best of all, the amount of rest between periods of duty. The use of protective devices is also a factor.

"Trap shooter's ear" has been so designated by sportsmen familiar with the situation. The trapshooter is hard of hearing in the ear that is next to the gun. The same phenomenon is found in machine gunners and those using the ordinary army rifle. The big gun crews get it in both ears. In the news reels you see the gunners at the discharge of a big gun holding their mouths open; this is plain common sense and experience as well as the result of instruction in protection. It equalizes the pressure on the middle ear through the Eustachian tube.

The prolonged use of quinine for those in malarial countries also does the hearing apparatus no good.

The onset of diminishing hearing due to these causes is gradual and often unrealized by the individual. Lieut. Howard found on examining men picked by chance, not because they complained of loss of hearing, that at first the acuity was dimmed for frequencies above 4,000 (coin-click) and seldom got so bad that it was diminished for the low tones (whispered voice).

The radio, movie and television would may well take these findings into account. The high tones—screams and the like—will be lost on much of the post-war population.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. J. K.: My little boy is three years old, and weighs 33 pounds, 38 inches tall. Do you think he is too thin? I have been buying certified milk for him, and because it is raw milk, have been boiling it. Do you think this is necessary?

Answer: Average height and weight at three years is 36-38 inches and 29½ to 31½ pounds. Certified milk need not be boiled for a three-year-old; he is over the most dangerous age for milk infection.

H. P.: Do large doses of Vitamin B affect the fingernails?

Answer: Lack of riboflavin, which is part of Vitamin B, is said by some to affect the nutrition of the fingernails.

Bicycle Riders' Attention
Called to Rules of Road

The use of bicycles has greatly increased since rationing, but many riders are not aware of the rules which govern bicycle riding, according to Albert P. Morris, manager of the Columbiana County Automobile club.

Bicycle riders are subject to the same rules of the road as are the drivers of automobiles, and the Ohio law includes additional regulations governing the use of bicycles. Riders are prohibited from carrying passengers; they are prohibited from "hitching rides" on automobiles, trucks or street cars; the bicycle must be equipped with an adequate brake, a bell or horn and if used at night must have a white light on the front and a red light or reflector on the rear.

Morris advises motorists to be cautious when approaching bicycle riders. Give sufficient warning of your presence at a distance and avoid a loud blast of the horn which may frighten the rider, he urges.

Win $1,500 Damages After Fall At Cleveland Zoo

COLUMBUS, June 2.—Two children who fell from an elephant's back three years ago in Brookside park at Cleveland yesterday won $1,500 damages.

The State Supreme court ruled in their favor after the court of appeals had reversed a common pleas court decision awarding them the damages in a suit against the Cleveland Museum of Natural History, owner of the animal.

The children are Audrey and George Newman. They were knocked from the elephant's back when the animal became frightened and bolted in the elephant house.

Special Containers Protect U. S. Shells

MIDDLETOWN, June 2.—Charles R. Hook, president of the American Rolling Mill Co., announced today the development of a new artillery ammunition container which can be thrown off moving vehicles, submerged in salt water or exposed to the effect of tropical climate without damaging the ammunition.

Hook said the sheet metal container now is in production in a number of places throughout the country. The container, perfected by Armco engineers, is water and vermin proof. Inside the steel container is a round fiber carton which protects the shell from the time the metal shipping container is removed until the shell actually is used. The container can be opened in a few seconds.

Hook said the container can do double duty in that after the ammunition has been delivered it can be used to construct revetments or barricades or may serve as storage units for clothing or anything else that requires protection against insects, weather or rough handling. They also may be used to ship back field cartridges and then may be used over again.

BRICKER

Democratic party and to influence elections by its unholy alliances, it is stepping outside its legitimate field of action.

"Labor has the right to discuss issues, to participate in government and to vote in elections as any other group of citizens—but it has no greater right. The whole people of this country vote for president and elect congressmen. No individual or group has the right, by any sort of threat or intimidation, or through the power of the purse, to thwart the will of the entire people.

"In fact, I am sure that the great majority of laboring people, union members and union leaders alike, believe as I do. I think they likewise resent the intrusion of Mr. (Sidney) Hillman's political activity into their private business of casting a free and untampered vote. They know, as I know, that any impairment of that right by a radical labor element will, in the end, defeat the honorable and legitimate aims of organized labor in this country."

Without mentioning any names, Bricker said "one of the most serious indictments of the New Deal is the charge that it has thwarted free voting in this country," and he added:

"It has used political patronage, governmental benefits, and political favors and privileges to pressure groups to win both nominations and elections. The formula is a simple one—spend and spend, elect and elect."

Corrupt Alliances
"But they spend our money. Indeed, the New Deal has gone even further. It has formed political alliances with notoriously corrupt political machines—like Tammany of

New York, the Hague machine of New Jersey and the Kelly machine of Chicago.

"There is increasing evidence that the New Deal proposes to use the same old technique . . . this year. This time it looks like an alliance with Sidney Hillman's CIO political committee as well as the notorious political machines."

The governor said the New Deal would be "utterly defeated" in November if there was a "free election" and he added "that is why it is reforming its alliances with Tammany, the Hagues, the Kellys, the Sidney Hillmans, and Communist elements in this country."

Much of Gov. Bricker's 45-minute address was devoted to an attack on New Deal policies and the audience interrupted frequently to applaud. He received his greatest responses when he expressed opposition to the establishment of an international police force and when he said it was the fault of the national administration that we were not prepared when the Japanese struck at Pearl Harbor.

OHIOANS EAT OUT, DRESS UP MORE

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, June 2.—Ohioans increased their expenditures from 1939 to 1943 more for "dolling up" and "eating out" than for other kinds of retail purchases, a survey by Ohio State university's Bureau of Business Research disclosed today.

The greatest relative increases in retail sales were 113 per cent in jewelry stores, 80 per cent in eating and drinking places and 78 per cent in family clothing stores. While "eating out" expenditures increased 80 per cent, sales of food for home consumption increased only 29 per cent. The survey showed that total rement is positively dangerous to the war effort."

Production needs and manpower demands may be easing up in specific plants or areas due to cutbacks but "workers who may be released in such situations are sorely needed in other plants or other areas where war production schedules are being increased. Experience in the past has shown that this easing of manpower does not result in the filling of all labor demands in critical war industries."

While some sources saw the expanded program as a move necessary because of the lack of national service legislation, McNutt said it had "no relation to any legislation." The WMC national management-labor policy committee has reaffirmed its conviction, he added, that the nation's manpower needs can best be met under programs voluntarily developed and adopted.

He explained that while the program is on a voluntary basis, sanctions can be imposed in cases of non-compliance. He said workers who refuse to cooperate would find it difficult without a clearance slip to get a job, while employers who do not participate will not have workers referred to them.

State Liquor Store Insurance Cancelled As Thefts Increase

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, June 2.—The state of Ohio now will be the sole loser in the event of thefts from the state's 216 liquor stores.

State Liquor Director Don A. Fisher disclosed yesterday that cancellation by the National Surety Co. of theft insurance on stocks in the liquor stores had left the state without any financial protection in the event of burglaries.

He said the insurance was cancelled after theft losses for the last nine months totaled approximately $4000.

The insurance, calling for a $60,000 premium payment for three years, was taken out last August. Fisher said the state has received a refund of approximately $43,000 to cover the unexpired part of the policy.

Fisher explained that unless some other company makes a "reasonable" offer, the state probably will have to go without insurance on the liquor stocks at least until the installation of American District Telegraph burglary alarm systems in all stores is completed late this month.

He asserted he had heard reports that insurance companies were quoting three-year rates ranging all the way from $150,000 to $400,000 to write policies on the Ohio liquor stores.

He expressed belief, however, that when the ADT systems are installed more "reasonable" rates would be quoted.

"It has been our experience," he added, "that the losses have been considerably smaller in stores which have the ADT systems."

In New York City's public school system 87 cents out of every dollar goes directly for instruction, and less than three cents is spent for administration.

Former Pastor to Speak At Columbiana Sunday

COLUMBIANA, June 2.—Army Chaplain John K. McDivitt, Jr., of Jefferson Barracks, Mo., former pastor, will speak at the Presbyterian church Sunday morning at 10:45. Lieut. McDivitt has been in the army for about three months.

Mrs. George Durkee of Pittsburgh, former local resident, is visiting friends here.

"Our Responsibility in Government" was the lesson topic when members of the Women's guild of the Grace Reformed church met at the church Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Charles Keller and Mrs. Louise Quigley were in charge.

Junior Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wilson, is a patient in the Youngstown hospital.

Mrs. James Bender and son are visiting Corp. James Bender at Fort Sill, Okla.

Mrs. Sheldon Frankel has returned from a visit with her husband who is stationed with the Navy at Norfolk, Va.

Scout Cub Pack No. 2 Holds Reorganization

The first meeting of the recently organized Cub pack No. 2 of the Methodist church was held last night at the church with Packmaster Ernest Horton in charge. E. T. Trebilcock is the assistant.

Seventeen boys are registered in the three dens of the pack. All have received registration cards and Bobcat pins. Eight boys passed wolf tests and received pins. A display of handicraft work of the members was held.

Scout Commissioner Eddie Howell gave a short address, commending the boys and their parents on the progress of the pack.

Plans were completed for a pack meeting and picnic supper at Centennial park Thursday, June 15.

The pack committee includes James Primm, R. E. Hutcheson, A. P. Combs and Herbert Kelly; den mothers, Mrs. Ralph Ball for No.

1. Mrs. Daniel Griffiths for No. 2 and Mrs. John Litty for No. 3.

GREENFORD SCHOOL ANNUAL DEDICATED

GREENFORD, June 2. — The Greenford Hi-Lites, High school annual has been dedicated to Pfc. Donald Howe, first member of the Senior class to be inducted into the armed forces. He joined the U. S. Marine Corps Dec. 2, 1943.

Since the yearbook arrived after dismissal of school, students must call at the home of Mrs. Fern Jackson, High school teacher, to receive them.

The Ladies Aid of the Lutheran church will meet Monday evening at the church. Council members will meet at the church the same evening.

The beautifying of our square has added greatly to our town. The grange has decorated one corner with a long flower bed. The volunteer firemen painted the flagpole and recently re-lettered the Honor Roll while the trustees keep the lawns trimmed neatly.

Ration Calendar For the Week

LISBON, June 2.—Barbara Ann Westfall and Orlan Armstrong, two members of the eighth grade in Junior High school, were given the American Legion awards Wednesday night in promotion exercises held in David Anderson High school for 50 students entering senior high next fall.

The award, given each year by the John Welsh post, is granted the two most outstanding eighth grade pupils. George Porter, commander of the post, made the presentations.

IF "BOOKS ARE WEAPONS"

as the President has said — and no one wishes to debate that truth — then we at the Book Shop are truly engaged in a "vital war industry."

The makers of books are using all the paper, all the labor available—and wishing for more. The American people are reading more books. Come in, "browse" over those, old and new, on our counters. If we haven't in stock the ones you are wanting we are happy to order—service from New York is very good.

DEATHS

MRS. MARY KEENE DICKEY

MRS. Mary Keene Dickey, 72, of 236 W. Pennsylvania ave., Sebring, widow of Curtis Dickey, died at 6 a. m. yesterday in the Raney nursing home on N. Ellsworth ave., following five months' illness.

She was born in Salem Oct. 15, 1871, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Mercer. She was a member of the Sebring Nazareth church.

Surviving are two sons, Lester Keene of Lake Milton and Homer Keene, living in California; three grandchildren; three brothers, Alton Mercer of Dayton, Harvey Mercer of Damascus and Elmer of Youngstown; and two sisters, Mrs. Anna Elzohrt, Sharpsville, Pa., and Mrs. James Filler of Monongehela, Pa.

Funeral service will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the Moorman funeral home in Sebring. Burial will be in Hope cemetery here.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p. m. Saturday.

J. FRED GEHRING

J. Fred Gehring, 64, a former Cleveland auditor died at 5 a. m. today at his home on the Depot rd., following two years' illness of a heart ailment.

Born in Bordeaux, France, May 9, 1880, Mr. Gehring lived for a number of years in Cleveland where he was auditor for the Hollenden hotel and the Union club until ill health forced him to retire two years ago. He moved to a farm south of Salem when he retired and had resided there since that time. Mr. Gehring had traveled extensively abroad and had made two visits to his homeland.

His wife, Mrs. Mabel Gehring, is the only survivor.

Funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at the Arbaugh-Pearce funeral home. Burial will be in Hope cemetery. Dr. R. D. Walter will conduct the service.

POPE SEES

ent world and in front of the eternal judgment of God."

Quoting an historian of the 19th century, the pontiff said Rome has good reasons before the world to be respected and left untouched.

Rome has known terrible days in its history, he continued—in the 16th century, in the 18th and on many other occasions.

"On all these occasions the Popes of the times succeeded in avoiding catastrophe and rescued and opened their doors to refugees of all creeds of all nationalities," he said.

"But what were the number of 6,000 or 7,000 refugees compared with the thousands of today?"

"To the last of our energies, and helped by so many good people, we intervened often," the Pope said. "In spite of the violations of our rights we have tried to help the population of Rome and its surroundings, supplying them with food."

"We have also started negotiations in order to bring food by way of the sea. The consent of one beligerent still is awaited."

Continuing, the pontiff said: "We have tried everything in order to spare Rome one of the darkest moments in its history. It is our supreme duty to follow the rules of our Lord as Peter did."

"In all the nations of the world there is a want for the future new order. But this new order must be supported by just and well balanced moral and material guarantees."

"Hopes for a future peace would be better based and more realistic if there were not so many religious movements which have departed from the Christian church and created separatist churches."

Invasion Weather

LONDON, June 2 — A fresh southwest wind that increased in strength in the morning hours made for choppy seas in Dover strait today, while overhead skies were cloudy. The weather was cool with the 9 a. m. temperature 56.

Conditions were a little brighter, and visibility was better than yesterday. The cloud ceiling was higher and the barometer had risen slightly.

High tides at Calais will be at 10:36 p. m. tonight (4:36 p. m. EWT) and 11:09 a. m. tomorrow (5:09 a. m. EWT).

trust will grow during war and expand after peace."

Well, America wants friends with Spain, too, but our viewpoint appears to be somewhat different. Despite Mr. Churchill's speech, President Roosevelt later expressed the opinion that Spain's shipment of supplies to Germany haven't been reduced enough.

It strikes me that our average citizen, in considering Spain's attitude, is likely to demand first an answer to two questions:

1—Does Spain's shipment of supplies to Germany mean loss of life to American soldiers?

2—Is it possible that these supplies will protract the conflict thereby causing further death and destruction, and wastage of the resources of many nations?

The answers to these queries are so obviously in the affirmative they need no discussion. With these before him, the average citizen is inclined not to give a tinker's damn about anything else.

He believes the Allies are powerful enough to compel Spain to recognize that it pays to be good. He thinks we have the right to do that.

1,000 OVERCOME

few minutes after the gas first was detected.

More than a score of ambulances were dispatched to the scene along with police and fire units. A police detail visited every home in the area seeking possible victims.

Thirty-three doctors, 42 nurses and 16 Red Cross Nurses' Aides administered emergency treatment at the scene. A detachment of gas-masked soldiers also aided.

The gas came from one of 20 tanks on the truck, operated by John G. Golliver, 45, of Brooklyn, who told police he detected fumes and stopped the vehicle. Discovering chlorine escaping from one cylinder, he asked a pedestrian for aid in removing the tank but was overcome.

He then called police who donned gas masks and removed the tank to the curb.

Inspector Joseph Barbuto of the Fire Department Bureau of Combustibles said he had obtained summonses against Golliver and the truck owner, Lester J. Denno, charging them with transporting chlorine through the streets without a permit.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

"Hello, Mr. Sturgis!" Ellen greeted him, coming forward. "Don't mind Bill Carstairs. He's a wee bit on the full side. Gosh, you look pale, Mr. Sturgis!" She offered Pierre a cigarette. His hand trembled as he took one.

"Will you have Scotch or rye?" Argus asked.

"Scotch, please," Sturgis said. Argus went in search of Butch. When he returned he overheard Sturgis asking Ellen if she would pose for him at nine o'clock that evening. He had a rush job to do, he explained.

"Bring Mr. Steele along, too," he added. "It won't take very long."

Butch brought in the drinks and set them down.

"Here, see if this is strong enough," Argus said. Sturgis took a sip and gagged slightly. He nodded his acquiescence.

"I made it strong, like you said, boss," Butch declared.

"Good. Butch, I thought you looked like you needed it, Mr. Sturgis," Argus said.

"I do," Pierre agreed. "I'm all done in." He stole a side glance at Bill Carstairs. "Can we talk?" he asked the detective.

"Sure," said Argus. "Nothing short of a bomb could wake Bill. Go ahead."

"I came here this afternoon, Mr. Steele, so see if I could retain you to solve Syria's death." He seemed to have difficulty speaking her name. "She was telling me about you Monday night on the way to dinner. Syria thought you were the greatest detective in the world. Well, frankly, I think a good man will be needed to find the scoundrel who took that poor girl's life. Of all the lovely girls who have been before my camera, she was the only one who ever affected me that way."

"It was Mr. Sturgis who did the color photos in that cigarette campaign for Syria," Ellen reminded Argus. "Those shots and a couple of magazine covers were really what led to her movie contract, even though Roger Flagg does take all the credit."

"Did you take any of those art photos that are being published in the papers?" Argus asked.

"Good Lord, no! exploded Sturgis. "Syria never posed for me in the nude or semi-nude. I wouldn't let her do that sort of stuff. The papers must've dug those up from several years back. She didn't know any better then."

"Mr. Sturgis," said Argus, "when you were out with Syria on Monday night, did she happen to mention either Bill Carstairs or his father?"

Sturgis hesitated. "No, not that I recall."

"But you knew that Syria was quite—er—friendly with Mr. Carstairs, Sr., didn't you?"

"I knew that he used her in his advertising campaigns, but—" He looked over at Bill.

"But you suspected that his son was the one who was personally interested in her, is that it?" Argus asked.

"Well, I—"

"When did you first suspect that there might be something between Bill here, and Syria?"

Sturgis looked unhappy. "Bill used to hang around the studio when Syria was working, and he'd send her flowers and presents. She told me once that he got on her nerves." The photographer paused. "Are you sure he's asleep? I mean maybe we shouldn't—"

Ellen went over to the couch and bent over Bill. He didn't stir. "He's knocked out of time—out definitely," she assured Sturgis. He looked relieved.

"Even if he could hear what you have to say," Argus said, "I would be interested in his reactions, one way or the other. But do go on."

"It was about a month ago that Syria broke off with me. She told me quite frankly that there was some one else. It was just about that time that Bill stopped hanging around so much and—" he shrugged—"I simply put two and two together."

Argus asked suddenly, "Where were you on Monday night between five and 6:30?"

Sturgis showed surprise. "Why I—wen down to see my engravers around four. Their offices are at Twenty-ninth Street and Fourth Avenue—I don't know just what time I left. It was dark. I stopped at the barber's on the way uptown. I needed a haircut—But why do you ask?"

"Something's come up," said Argus, "that makes me curious about the actions of every one connected with the case at that particular time. When you left the barber's where did you go?"

"To meet Syria," answered the photographer.

"Do you remember the name of the barber?"

"Why, no. I'd never been in the place before. It was around Madison Avenue and Forty-second."

"But you could find it again?" Argus persisted.

"Why—I suppose so." Sturgis looked disturbed. "I can't say, Mr. Steele, that I can see much bearing on—"

"I'll tell you," said Argus slowly. "I'd like to find Syria's murderer as much as you would. Actually, though, I'm out of the detective business officially. Furthermore, I want to do a little more investigating before I decide whether any one should retain me to help solve this crime. However, I'll let you know in a day or two if I decide to go into this thing professionally."

Again the doorbell rang.

"This time it must be Dorry," Ellen said. "I'll let her in."

"Dorry still looked pale and wan. She had on a mink coat, but no hat."

"Dorry, this is Mr. Sturgis—Mrs. Carstairs," Ellen said.

"Mrs. Carstairs?" Pierre repeated questioningly.

"Yes," replied Argus. "They were married secretly a week ago. How are you, Dorry?"

"I'm all right, thank you," she said. She looked over at Bill. "How is he?"

"He's just fallen asleep," explained Ellen. "But he's all in one piece."

Dorry went over to her husband and pushed back a lock of dark hair from his forehead.

"I must be going," Sturgis said. "If you come to any decision or hear any news, Mr. Steele, I wish you'd call me. Give me a ring in any case if I can be of some assistance." Argus helped him on with his coat and they walked to the entrance.

"Goodbye, Mr. Sturgis. Glad you dropped in," smiled Argus, extending his hand.

"Come up to the studio tonight," Sturgis repeated, "if you'd like. Oh, and Inspector Grange said something yesterday at the fashion show about Cynthia Lane having written you a letter—"

"Well," said Argus. "The police are looking into that letter detail." Sturgis waited as if he expected Argus to go on. When the detective didn't he said goodbye and left. Argus closed the door behind the photographer and rejoined Dorry and Ellen.

"Now," he said, "let's us three sit down quietly and have a nice little chat."

"Why don't you sit over here, Dorry?" Argus suggested, indicating a chair. "Ellen will make you a drink." Dorry moved away from Bill's side and sat down.

"May I take your coat?" Ellen asked.

"No, thanks. I just came to get Bill. I want to get him home. It was nice of you to call me, Ellen."

"How long has it been since you've seen this husband of yours?" Argus asked. "Did he come home last night?" Dorry didn't answer.

"I've unearthed some evidence that might not look so good for Bill, if it were turned over to the police," Argus produced the cancelled check signed by William Carstairs. Dorry's eyes widened at the signature.

"Have you ever seen this before?" he asked.

"No," said Dorry.

"Was your husband financing Syria or did she blackmail him when she learned that he had married you?"

"That's not Bill's signature," Dorry said, evenly.

Ellen returned with two drinks and handed one to Dorry and one to Argus.

"Don't tell me it's a forgery," Argus remarked scathingly. "I'm trying to help you. If you prefer I'll call the police, hand them the check and—"

"No," said Dorry. She plucked nervously at a button on her coat. "I'll tell you whatever you want to know." She looked at Ellen, who smiled at her reassuringly. "That check you just showed me was signed by Bill's father, not by Bill." She hung her head.

"Are you positive?"

"Yes."

"What's Bill doing with it, then?" Argus asked.

"I don't know."

"Come on, Dorry, I think it would be better if you told me," Argus pursued.

GRANDMOTHER'S BOND WITH THE FUTURE -WAR BONDS

..for your grandchildren, the best in the world!

ORDINARILY, age brings certain privileges. One of the greatest of them perhaps, is that of watching, from the sidelines, the growth and progress of our children's families.

Certainly one of the rewards of being a mother is becoming a grandmother—able to enjoy our sons' and daughters' children to the full, while leaving the responsibility for them in other hands.

The war, which has changed so many things, has changed this too. When the war took our sons—when it broke up our children's homes—it gave back to America's grandmothers responsibilities which we had passed on long ago. The privilege of growing older quietly has been denied the women of our generation while this war lasts.

For today, our grandchildren need our help.

And it is in our power to give them greater help, perhaps, than any grandparents ever gave before.

We can give this help by buying War Bonds and Stamps—for our children's children. And no other single thing that we can do will help so much, or in so many different ways.

War Bonds can help to bring fighting fathers back to their families next year—the year after—as soon as possible. War Bonds can provide those families now with aid in case of illness or emergency. War Bonds can help assure an education for a boy whose father comes back crippled—or does not come back at all. War Bonds can help to guarantee a busy, prosperous America for our sons when they return—an America in which our grandsons can find all the opportunities they need to lead the fullest, happiest lives in all the world.

The Grandmothers' War Bond League is simply a way of recognizing and uniting the grandmothers who are today buying War Bonds and Stamps for their grandchildren. Every one who buys a Bond or Stamp in a grandchild's name automatically becomes a member.

Join the Grandmothers' War Bond League today!

The Grandmothers' League was founded by Mrs. George C. Marshall, wife of the Army Chief-of-Staff. It is not a formal club. It is simply a roll of honor which grandmothers automatically belong to when they buy bonds, or start stamp albums, for their grandchildren. Mrs. Marshall urges every grandmother in America to help the fighting men today...and their children tomorrow, by joining the Grandmothers War Bond League.

Old Timers Clinch Second Place Honors, Sheens Move Up

Lanney Continues Superb Pitching To Win 4-0, Recs Down Paxsons In Close One

Making sure they will at least tie for second place in the first round, the Recreations yesterday edged the Paxsons 4-1 at Centennial park as Sheens won in a shutout 4-0 over Demings in the second game.

Sheens closed their schedule for the first round with a mark of three wins and three losses and moved into a tie for third place with the News. Hurler Francis Lanney turned in another excellent show as he blanked Demings with one hit in the seven inning stretch.

Lanney now has a corner on the pitching honors for the season as he has held all opposition to just eight hits in the last four games. The High School had pitched a one-hitter last week against the News, allowed the Old Timers six hits, tossed a no-hitter Monday against Mullins and added another single hit game yesterday.

Recs Splurged In Sixth

The Recs trailed until the fifth inning when they matched Paxsons one score garnered in the fourth. Although Mutt Schaffer allowed the Old Timers 11 bingles in three contests, he kept the safe ones far enough apart to hold them until the sixth inning when a three run splurge ended Paxson hopes. Gregg held the losers to three hits.

Sheens started things off in their half of the first with a run and followed through with another pair in the third. Pete Davis and league-leading Jimmie Appedison each connected three times in as many trips to the plate.

The diminutive Sheen third sacker is padding the loop with two homers, a batting average of .500 and five runs scored in his 16 trips to the batting box.

BROWNS DO NEAT ACT BY LANDING FIRST WITH LOSS

New Top Yankees After Both Squads Lose Games Yesterday

By JACK HAND.
 Associated Press Sports Writer
 It's only five games from top to bottom of the American league scale today as the St. Louis Browns celebrate their latest feat of "losing" themselves into first place.

When the Browns were slaughtered yesterday by Washington, 11-5, as the New York Yankees were squeezed out by Detroit, 4-3, in 16 innings, Luke Sewell's crew took over the lead by two slender percentage points. They have won four and lost three more than the champions.

Detroit's clean sweep of the Yankees series put them only one game and a half away with Philadelphia and Washington another length back.

Steve O'Neill repeated with Paul Trout and Hal Newhouse in relief roles to shade the New Yorkers, Lefty Hal getting credit for his eighth win and third over the Yankees. Don Ross' double off Reddy Atley Donald was the telling blow.

Stan Spence slammed six hits in six at bats to tie the modern record that teammate George Myatt and 23 other gents hold as Washington routed four Browns hurlers with 20 blows.

George Metkovich banged a three-run homer in the ninth to assure Boston a 7-6 victory over Cleveland. Boston scored four in the first, but the Tribe had rallied for a two-run edge with two out in the last frame when Metkovich hit for four hits.

Johnny Barrett was the whole show as Pittsburgh topped Brooklyn 2-1 for Rip Sewell's seventh triumph. Barrett's eight-inning round-tripper won the game and his catch of Luis Olmo's long drive in the ninth saved it. Babe Dahlgren also touched Curt Davis for a homer, although Davis gave but four hits.

The St. Louis Cardinals lengthened their National League lead to three and a half games by downing Boston 4-2, while Cincinnati bowed to the Phillies, 8-7. George Munger joined Mate Max Lanier in the six-win class but had to be relieved by Fred Schmidt after dislocating a finger trying to stop a liner. Kewpie Dick Barrett batted home four runs with a triple and double in getting credit for the Phils' win over the Reds.

Danny Gardella authored his fourth homer in the seventh frame of a night game to score behind Pitcher Bill Voiselle with the big runs of the New York Giants' 5-3 edge over Chicago. It was the sixth straight victory for the Polo grounds, who took fourth place on the day's results.

The Philadelphia-Chicago game in the American league was postponed.

June 18, the second by June 25 and the third by July 2. Finals, which will be 36 holes, will be played off by July 12.

Qualifying rounds will be 18 holes medal play with full handicap allowed. The 16 lowest scores qualify in each of two divisions. First matches must be played by

NEW YORK, June 2. — Lavis, Rudy's kid brother, is coping a share of the family's baseball headlines. Lavis, a sailor at the Naval Receiving station, pitched a no-hit game in a Newport News, Va., softball league last week. And his hitting in a hardball practice session made quite an impression on Branch Rickey Jr., who dropped in to look over the Piedmont league park.

Grid Stars Set For D-Day

Headliners A Few Years Back, Now Serving In England, Italy

By FRANK ECK
 AP Features Sports Writer

NEW YORK—Ever wonder what became of some of the nation's top collegiate footballers of the past few years—especially those you haven't heard about because of the war? No they're not all fighting the Japs in the Pacific.

Many of them, like Lt. Ernest (Pug) Rentner, North Western's All-America back of 1931 who later starred with the Chicago Bears, and Lt. David Jenkins, 1941 All-American center who captained Missouri's Sugar Bowl eleven in his final year, are stationed in England waiting for D-day.

Rentner is a gunnery officer at a Navy air base while Jenkins pilots a flying fortress.

One Pilot
 Austin Bealmear, AP war correspondent in London, reports that the gridiron has one of the best representations in the air and on the ground in England.

 There's Sgt. Dennis B. Andricks of Houston, Tex., who under-studied Jarrin John Kimbrough at fullback for the Texas Aggies three years ago. Andricks is with the U. S. 9th Air Force. Another Aggie in England is Capt. Marshall Spivey, quarterback for three years and captain in 1941. He's company commander at an Army quartermaster salvage depot.

Maj. Wink Davis of Atlanta, ex-Georgia Tech back, now commands a fortress station complement over there.

List Long
 The list is long but not tiresome. Carl C. Hinkle, former star center at Vanderbilt and later captain of the cadet corps at West Point, is a captain and commands a flying fortress squadron. Lt. Harvey S. Olson, 1928 Purdue captain, is assigned to a Navy task force.

Capt. Houston Betty, All-Big Six center at Missouri in 1935, is a special service officer at an Army base.

S/Sgt. Robert B. Priestly, of Worcester, Mass., formerly of the Philadelphia Eagles, recently completed his combat tour as a Liberators gunner. Lt. Walter Joachim, former Penn State player, is a Liberator bombardier.

Penn Tail Gunner
 S/Sgt. James J. Osterheldt, who played for Penn State and the Cleveland Rams, is a Liberator tail gunner. Lt. Irving Constantine, formerly of Syracuse, is gunnery officer of a Liberator group.

Capt. Clarence Bledsoe, one-time Washington U. star, is a Liberator group flight surgeon. Lt. Charles Brickley, San Francisco junior college tackle in 1939, is special service officer of a Fortress group.

Vic Kolman, formerly of Temple and the Chicago Bears, is an ensign assigned to a Navy armed ground crew. Lt. Robert Halperin, of Notre Dame and the Brooklyn Dodgers—now the Tigers, is on the staff of Rear Adm. Alan G. Kirk, Navy task force commander. Halperin earned the Navy Cross in the Sicilian invasion.

LEAVES FROM A WAR CORRESPONDENT'S NOTEBOOK

by Hal Boyle

LONDON—The proprietor of my first (and last) horse-steak house, where Don Whitehead and Elizabeth, the Czech refugee, proved to me that I can stick to beef, lamb, pork and such or do without, did a poor job of trying to convert me. You will remember that Don, who didn't see a bit more of fighting, field hospitals and army rations in Africa and Italy than I did, ate all of his first horse steak in revenge for some equine insults he had taken at Churchill Downs. And that Elizabeth, who guided us to M. Maurice Cannon's horse meat restaurant, just naturally likes "plater on a platter." But that I only got away with one bit in spite of the fact that horse steaks with lettuce salad, French fried potatoes and coffee cost only 80 cents, with which you can hardly touch a meal at any other London restaurant.

The Swiss proprietor, M. Cannon, noted my feeble effort.

"The English don't care much for horse meat," he admitted, "although it is certainly one of the most healthful foods they could eat. Doctors prescribe it for many people because it is rich with blood vitamins."

I just wanted to get out. M. Cannon said most of his guests are French or Belgian, but with a good sprinkling of French Canadians.

I hoped I wasn't keeping anyone from his regular seat. "Most of our steaks come from horses in Scotland and the meat is more rigidly inspected than beef. We sell only steaks, but some places also have horse liver and tongue. It's a good dish, horse's tongue. Try it some time. You'll be surprised how well you'll like it."

I did get out. Elizabeth said she felt so full of energy she could hardly keep from running—and she did, catching a taxi.

"Musta been thoroughbred we ate," said Don.

The rest of the day I felt like a Shetland pony was running around in my stomach. I'm sure glad that steak wasn't carved off Pegasus. I guess picking horsefeathers out of my teeth could have made it worse.

I hereby bequeath to the French all my dinner rights in old gray mare, boiled, baked or fried.

Greenford Alumni Banquet Saturday

GREENFORD, June 2. — The Greenford Alumni association will hold its annual banquet at 6:30 p.m. Saturday in the school auditorium.

Carl Hendricks will be toastmaster, Frank Hampton will give the welcome and Earl Miller the response. Dancing will follow the program. The Calla church is serving the meal. Reservations should be made with Miss Wilma Jean Lang, Mrs. Lois Roller Hendricks, Fred Puttkamer, Raymond Rhodes or Robert Kenreich.

The Green rural board of education met Monday evening. Warren Weikart was rehired as janitor. Two teachers vacancies are open for the fall term.

Plan Church Event
The Locust Grove Baptist church will hold children's day exercises Sunday morning, June 11.

The Thursday afternoon club met yesterday with Mrs. Howard Feicht.

The Jolly Time club will have a picnic supper Sunday evening at Firestone park, Columbiana.

The Greenford G. C. P. met Monday evening at Stanley Calvins. Plans were made to purchase jersey shirts with their emblems on. They will meet again in two weeks with Vernon and James Feicht, with a ball game in view with some outside team.

The Busy Bees met yesterday with Miss Alice Kenreich, beginning sewing projects and starting the first cooking lesson.

Betty June Cook, baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Cook, remains in the Salem City hospital but is much improved.

Woman Marries Fifteen Husbands, Nabbed by FBI

DETROIT, June 2.—Fifteen husbands since 1926 is the record, FBI agent Robert A. Guerin said today, of red-haired Mrs. Marion Stankowich, held here on a federal charge of fraudulently receiving benefits under the servicemen's dependents allowance act of 1942.

Guerin, in charge of the Detroit FBI office, said the government charges she received allowance benefits on only four of the fifteen.

Relating that her memory was hazy regarding some of the marriages, Guerin said Mrs. Stankowich, 35, gave a record of marriages in Michigan, Indiana, Texas, Colorado, New York, Ohio, Arizona and Florida.

The Liberty Bell was cracked on July 8, 1835.

Doughboys Penetrate Enemy Lines Without Firing Single Shot

BY KENNETH L. DIXON

BEHIND GERMAN LINES
SOUTH OF ROME, June 1. (Delayed)—A bunch of American fighting men staged one of the most spectacular infantry coups of the war last night and early this morning by establishing themselves on a high razorback ridge on Monte Artemisio, overlooking Velletri.

They moved in ghostlike stealth by the hundreds through bright moonlight and infiltrated German lines and reserve positions.

At dawn today, they were in positions overlooking Velletri, which still is contested.

Between these Alban hills and Velletri, an unknown number of Germans are caught in a slowly closing trap, completely surprised because the GI's came all the way without firing a single shot.

Our position overlooks Rome to the north and Velletri to the south. I accompanied the troops in their circuitous 15-mile crawling, scrambling and hiding hike.

They accomplished their feat by slipping past German machine-gun positions so close that bright tracers fired toward our side of the front flashed over our heads as we crawled along.

They "eliminated without noise" the few German outposts and sentries which they could not by-pass.

By crawling and crouching along a snake-like course through vineyards and forests and up almost perpendicular slopes, they took advantage of every possible cover.

The closest call came when the Germans staged a front line air raid while we still were in no-man's land. Flares were dropped, illuminating the whole countryside and their deadly brilliance forced us to lie motionless for minutes which seemed like hours. Barking dogs and baying jackasses also threatened to betray our creeping progress.

The whole venture was like the Hollywood conception of war. It had never been done by so many before on this front.

Tonight after 24 hours and at the point three miles behind the German lines, I still can hardly believe the venture was successful.

COLUMBIANA

A total of 2,000 poppies was sold here at the annual Poppy day sale under the sponsorship of the American Legion auxiliary. Girl Scouts assisted. This exceeds last year's sales by 1,000. This is the largest amount ever sold and netted the auxiliary $259.35 which will be used in veterans hospitals, for veterans of World war one and two and their families.

The Towais class of the Presbyterian church will be entertained in the home of Mrs. John A. Woodward Wednesday evening, June 7, at 8. Associate hostesses will be Mrs. Ralph Irons, Mrs. Eugene Crawford and Mrs. Kay Justice. The new programs for the year will be distributed. The new president, Mrs. Royden Walker, will preside.

The final meeting of the year for Columbiana Mothers club will be a basket picnic to be held at Firestone park June 21, at which time husbands and families will be guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Poulton have received word that their son, Sgt. Eugene Poulton, has arrived safely in Ireland with the Air Corps.

The female firefly has a much brighter light than the male.

Farm Youth Is Killed

BUCYRUS, June 2. — A horse-drawn rotary hoe ran over and killed Wayne Keplinger of near New Washington today on his 13th birthday.

The boy's mother, Mrs. A. G. Keplinger, who had a birthday cake waiting for Wayne, found the body in a field after he failed to answer her calls.
